DAY AND NIGHT PROCESSION.

A GRAND SPECTACLE.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, October 2, 1868.

The city has been all day a scene of pleasurable excitement. The streets in all directions were filled with men, women and children. All classes make it a holiday. The recommendation of the Committee that the citizens decorate their stores and dwellings was faithfully carried out. In Chestnut street there has been no such exhibition of colors since the fall of Richmond. Private houses along the route of procession were decorated, and in many instances the displays were quite grand.

The procession formed on Broad street and commenced moving at eleven o'clock, the line headed by Gen. Owen, with his staff mounted. The war Governors in barouches followed, including Governors Burnside and Curtin. The "Boys in Blue" of nearly every ward were largely represented.

Among the delegations were two hundred prisoners, each carrying a small flag with the name of the rebel prison in which they had suffered.

A wagon followed with the survivor from rebel prisons, who were unable to walk.

The Tenth ward carried a tattered flag of the 82d regiment.

The Fifteenth ward regiment was headed by a veteran carrying an old knapsack that had done service with the army—a blanket on top—with the motto, "Our Carpet Bag."

The city delegations composed the first division, and made an imposing appearance, the clubs marching in solid column, ten abreast.

Next came the second division, with Governor Geary at its head in a carriage. This comprised the interior of Pennsylvania delegations, which were very numerous.

The Northampton Boys carried the flag of the 93d Pennsylvania Regiment.

The Schuylkill Boys carried a live coon on a pole. The Tanners carried a miniature tannery, with two men at work in it as it was carried along.

Chester county was also represented.

Allegheny county make a good show. Their banner declared "Allegheny good for 10,000," and advised the boys to "Close up the ranks for a final charge."

The Reading delegation had a large pictured lantern showing the horrors of Andersonville and the motto: "We will follow Grant to Victory and Peace."

Easton displays a full length figure of Grant, with the motto "We Fought with Bullets as we will with Ballots."

Morristown carried the flag of the 51st and 38th Pennsylvania regiments.

The third division was composed of the New York delegations, under General Graham.

The next division was composed of delegations from Delaware and Maryland.

Regimental flags from the War Department were carried and excited applause.

The fifth division contained New Jersey delegations, headed by veteran officers mounted.

The sixth division comprised the Massachusetts delegations.

The procession occupied an hour and a half in passing a given point, and was in all respects a grand spectacle.

As the procession was passing Sixth and Pine streets this afternoon an assault was made on the Baltimore delegation. A pistol was fired and in the struggle that ensued George Sayer was carried away wounded. The wounded man is supposed to have been one of the assailants. He is reported dead.

THE NIGHT PARADE.

The parade to-night far exceeds the procession of to-day, as all the "Invincibles," "Berry" and other campaign clubs turned out, which they did not do this morning.

The various campaign clubs formed on the lower section of Broad street, and commenced to march about nine o'clock. An immense crowd witnessed their formation, and along the route, which extended from Christian to Girard avenue, the sidewalks, steps and windows were occupied with applauding spectators.

The man wounded this afternoon is named George Sawyer. He was removed to the hospital where he lies in a critical condition. He is a Republican, but he was on the sidewalk and not in the procession.

The torchlight procession reached Third and Chestnut streets at half-past ten o'clock, and was an hour and a quarter passing a given point. The city clubs acted as escort to the visiting Boys in Blue, and conducted them over the route to the meeting in front of the Union League House, where the whole body passed in review.

Among the mottoes exhibited on the banners and lanterns, was one portraying a huge whisky bottle, empty, with a likeness of F. P. Blair on the inside and inscribed: "Here lies the whisky bottle empty, as we go marching on."

Another asked whether Tom Florence, the Democratic Congressional candidate, was not a "carpet bagger."

Another had a Pilgrim on Plymouth Rock as the first "carpet bagger."

Another "No rebels in these ranks."

One ward club had a huge rolling ball on a wagon.

The 28th ward exhibited, "This infant ward cries out for Grant and Colfax,"

The "Invincibles" turned out one thousand strong by actual count. The "Campaign Club" was nearly as large, while each ward had independent Clubs.

During the whole evening Chestnut street was packed from Broad to Third street with people passing from one direction to the other, leaving scarcely room for cars to pass.

Notwithstanding the crowds that lined the streets through which the procession passed, a large mass of people assembled in front of the Union League House, and a meeting was organized, with Colonel Forney as President, at the main stand. He said veterans who conquered the rebellion clustered by thousands in the city of the Declaration of American Independence to conquer peace. They meet without arms, but are stronger than an army, for though they have laid aside their bayonets they are equipped with their ripe convictions; they have come here for no purpose of revenge, for magnanimity is the first attribute of the soldier. But they have come for the purpose of protection to themselves and their country, and to secure this they begin by being generous to their enemies and end by being just to their friends.

He proceeded to review the former Republican political trials and spoke eulogistically of the conduct and appearance of the great number of former soldiers and sailors of the Union who had assembled in Philadelphia on this occasion. He concluded as follows: "Even rebels, unconvinced by every argument of reason and of mercy, will not resist the inevitable logic of inevitable success, and they who fail to make good their pledge to Grant, the conquering General, will see the folly and danger of contending against Grant, the eighteenth President of the United States."

General Sickles, Governor Geary and others also addressed the meeting. The speaking wes continued until the arrival of the procession, when it passed in review, each club endeavoring to rival the one preceding by the precision of their marching. The scene was grand, being brightened by the display of fireworks and other demonstrations of welcome.

The Boys in Blue, after the line had passed the assemblage, dispersed with cheers for Grant and Colfax.

NEW YORK CITY.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, October 2.

The Protestant Methodist Episcopal Convention was in session to-day. The plan for a federal council occupied most of the session. The Low Church delegates endeavored to introduce a clause depriving the Council of legislative and judicial powers, but on a vote by orders their substitute was lost—ninety-nine against one hundred and fifty-five.

Steps are being taken by the Stock Exchange and Open Board to raise the standard of membership, and increase the initiation fee to $10,000.

A suit was before the Supreme Court to-day by John Morrissey against Z. E. Simmonds and others to receive certain lottery shares sold by plaintiff to Simmonds on which is alleged there has been default in payment, and to obtain injunction against the continuance of the business and the appointment of a receiver.

The office of Phillip Dater & Co., wholesale grocers, Wall street, was robbed of $10,000 in bonds.

Wm. Girard, an old merchant, died yesterday.

The American Bible Society has appointed Rev. Andrew Hunter agent for the southern Arkansas.

The American Tract Society of Boston yesterday rescinded the vote passed February 12th adopting an agreement with the American Tract Society of New York, on the grounds that the latter failed to fulfill a part of the contract, which provides for the discontinuance on the part of the New York Society of their depository in Boston and transfer of their sale agency of their book and tract publications in that city.

Private advices from Thurlow Weed say he is rapidly regaining bodily strength in Europe.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS.

The friends of George Francis Train this evening nominated him as an independent candidate for Congress from the Fifth district, represented by John Morrissey.

SERENADE TO GEN. M'CLELLAN.

General McClellan was serenaded this evening at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The McClellan Legion, numbering 6,000 or 8,000 men, marched in procession to the hotel, bearing banners and torchlights and accompanied by bands. Madison square was densely packed with citizens who, while waiting for Gen. McClellan, were regaled with a display of fireworks. The General's appearance on the hotel balcony was the signal for enthusiastic applause. He was introduced by General John H. H. Ward as "The great Commander of the Army of the Potomac." Gen. McClellan said: "I know my friends you will not expect a speech, but be contented with the expression of my sincere thanks for this cordial greeting on my return home." The legion then passed in review before Gen. McClellan and the vast assemblage soon separated, cheering for the "Hero of Antietam."

WASHINGTON, PA.

Mass Convention of Republicans---Grand Outpouring of the Loyal Masses---Unprecedented Brilliant Display.

By special dispatch from Washington, Pennsylvania, we learn that the grand mass convention of Republicans, held at that place yesterday, was the most brilliant and imposing affair of the kind ever held in the county. Delegations from every district in the county and surrounding sections were present and participated, and the excitement ran very high. The daylight procession, four miles in length, was a magnificent affair, and elicited the highest encomiums from the thousands of spectators who lined the route over which it passed. Fully five thousand persons marched in the ranks, bearing numberless flags, banners, etc., etc., upon which were inscribed humorous, patriotic and stirring devices, all of which were more than usually appropriate.

At the conclusion of the procession, the vast concourse adjourned to the Fair Grounds, where a meeting was organized and addresses delivered by Hon. Mahlon Chance, of Ohio; Lewis Barker, of Maine; Hon. George V. Lawrence, member of Congress from the Twenty-fourth District, J. B. Donley, Republican nominee for the place about to be made vacant by Mr. Lawrence, and a number of others distinguished for their eloquence as well as patriotism.

In the evening a grand torchlight procession took place. The turn out for this affair was immense, and the wildest enthusiasm prevailed. The display was gorgeous in the extreme, and far surpassed the expectations of the most sanguine.

At the conclusion of this feature of the Convention, a monster meeting was organized at the Court House, which was addressed at considerable length by Hon. Lewis Barker, in a speech replete with keen wit, cutting sarcasm, and eloquent and convincing argument.

The meeting adjourned at a late hour and closed the exercises of a Convention which, taken together, was an unprecedented and brilliant success and will long be remembered by the Republicans of Washington with feelings of exultant pride and pleasure.

NATURALIZATION FRAUDS!

The records of the Supreme Court at Philadelphia up to the 24th ult., though no one day is complete, show that in nine days one thousand three hundred and ten persons were naturalized, and that twelve persons vouched for three hundred and thirty-two, or one-fourth of the whole number. In the Supreme Court a rule has been applied for against Snowden, the Prothonotary, for an investigation as to the issue of papers in blank with his signature and seal of the Court.

Desperate Shooting Affray.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WELLSVILLE, Mo., October 2.—The following are the particulars as far as can be ascertained of the shooting affray which took place at Martinsburg, this county, Wednesday last. While the Board of Registration was in session a returned rebel soldier named Sam Fletcher handed a letter to a Union man named Reed, ordering him to leave the town in fifteen minutes. Reed showed the letter to the registrating officers, who, to prevent an outbreak, which seemed imminent, ordered the arrest of Fletcher, but when the Constable attempted to serve the warrant Fletcher refused to be arrested, drawing a revolver and calling upon his friends for assistance. Mr. Galloway, one of the registering officers, ordered the Constable and men summoned to his aid to disarm Fletcher. A brother of Fletcher's then interfered and drew a revolver upon Galloway, but when just in the act of firing, Galloway shot him dead. A man named Marshall then shot Galloway, wounding him, and received a ball in his head in return. In the meantime the Sheriff had interfered to prevent Fletcher from using his pistol, but when the firing began he ran away. Fletcher then ran a short distance and shot at the officers who returned the fire, giving him a mortal wound from which he died in a short time. Quite a number of shots were then fired at the officers by persons concealed in buildings, and by parties in the crowd. The registering officers and constable and posse surrendered themselves and gave bonds to appear next term at court. Both Fletchers and Marshall were returned rebel soldiers and were desperate characters. The affair created great excitement, and yesterday about forty armed exrebels collected near Martinsburg for the purpose of wreaking their vengeance upon the registering officers, but the citizens rallied to their support, and have thus far prevented any other lawless acts.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Presentation to a Conductor.

Last evening a few of the personal friends of Mr. William Cahoon, conductor of the Erie Express on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, between Pittsburgh and New Castle, presented him with a very beautiful gold badge, as a token of their regard for him as a gentleman and an officer. At the request of the donors, Rev. John Douglas, D. D., made the presentation address, in the course of which he paid a very high, but well deserved compliment to the general and subordinate officers of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railway for the skillful, enlightened and liberal manner in which they manage the road, which, he had no hesitation in saying, is now one of the best equipped, safest, most important and thoroughly officered thoroughfares in the country, as, in connection with the great Pennsylvania Central, it affords the most easy and rapid communication between the Atlantic seaboard and the great Northwest. Dr. Douglass said the Company had shown their wisdom and regard for the public safety in nothing better than the care with which they selected their conductors, with a number of whom he enjoyed a personal acquaintance. Their position was a responsible and, in many respects, an unpleasant one. But so far as his personal observation went, they discharged their duty with a full appreciation of their responsibilities, both to the company and its patrons. On personal grounds, it was to him a matter of extreme pleasure that the generous donors had made him the medium through which Mr. Calhoun was to receive the beautiful badge, as through his kind and accommadating offices he had been enabled to send communications to the press at a much later hour than he could have done through the ordinary channels of transmission. He knew Mr. Cahoon to be one of those officers who could be firm and decided without being rude or impolite, even when insolence and vulgarity might provoke, at least, to harshness. In making these statements he was not only expressing his own, but the sentiments also of the liberal friends in whose name he presented the beautiful badge.

On the obverse of the badge there is the word "Conductor," and on the reverse the following inscription, "Presented to Mr. William Cahoon by a few of his friends, October 2nd, 1868.

Mr. Cahoon made a very touching and appropriate response. Words failed to express his gratitude to his friends for their beautiful gift. He was proud to learn that he had gained their confidence and esteem, and hoped he would be able to wear the badge with honor to the Company, the donors and himself.

The presentation took place at the dining rooms of Mr. McGinley, on Fifth avenue. After the addresses, the donors entertained Mr. Cahoon, and a few invited guests, at a very fine oyster supper, which was spread in McGinley's best style. At the supper table, Mr. M. Seely read a very fine poem, dedicated to Mr. Cahoon, for which we are sorry we have not room. The affair was a pleasant one, and honorable to all concerned.

A Very Pleasant Occasion.

A prominent feature of the recent Republican daylight procession was the display in the ranks of the Second ward, Allegheny, delegation, a conspicuous part of which was the splendid turn-out of the ever loyal and efficient Friendship Fire Company. The latter especially braved the rain which seemed so persistently to wage war against the demonstration, pouring down heavy drops as though all the panes had been knocked out of the windows of heaven by the stone-throwing Democrats. Capt. Alexander Wilson, one of our most esteemed fellow citizens of Allegheny, had charge of the delegation as Chief Marshal, with our genial friend Captain W. E. Stewart as chief aid. The gallantry and manly bearing of the Friendship members, reflected credit to the Ward they represented and in order to make them feel that their efforts in the good cause were fully appreciated, Captain Wilson last evening honored them, together with a large number of the representative gentlemen of the ward and members of our city press, with a sumptuous banquet at the ever popular Morgan House, corner of Pasture Lane and Taylor avenue. There sat down to the table about one hundred guests and we need not say that the supper prepared fully sustained the high reputation of the hotel and that of its attentive and accommodating host, G. C. Lightcap, Esq. After partaking of a very hearty meal, the cloths were removed and wine introduced. John McDonald, Esq., was called to preside and sentiment, speech-making and song followed. Capt. Wilson made a very neat address, highly complimenting the Friendship boys and formally tendering his thanks to them as a body for their participation in the late procession, and for the many acts of loyalty which have marked their history as an organization. Appropriate addresses were also made by Messrs. Moreland, Reed, McDonald, Stewart, McGraw, Barnes, O'Neill, and others. Capt. Jas. Hunter, in an eloquent speech, full of beauty, replied on behalf of the Friendship Fire Company, expressing gratitude for the high compliments paid them by the several speakers, and especially to Mr. Wilson for the munificent manner in which he had entertained them. The meeting then adjourned after the singing, in their unequaled good style of execution, of several patriotic songs by the Second Ward Quartette Club of Allegheny City, under the leadership of that master of vocalization, Prof. Slack. So ended one of the most pleasant affairs of the character we have ever attended.

Another Torchlight Procession.

The Republicans of our sister city of Allegheny, are moving unitedly with the view of getting up a mammoth torchlight procession, to take place on Monday evening, October 12th, in that city. The City Executive Committee have the matter in hand, and their efforts will unquestionably be seconded by all the clubs, committees from the latter having been appointed almost generally to confer together at the Club Room of the Fourth ward, on Monday evening, at which time definite arrangements will be made. The various Clubs of this city, and other adjacent localities, we understand, have signified their intention of participating, and we doubt not but the affair will rank second to none. Let the good work go on.

A Juvenile Stumper.

A little boy of some ten years of age delivered the following campaign oration in one of our public schools, yesterday:

We live in very important times. Great political questions are now to be settled. In the month of November the people of the United States will be called upon to decide who shall rule over them for the next four years. There are two tickets in the field. On one are the names of Grant and Colfax; on the other of Seymour and Blair. The people will promote their own interests by electing the former. What has Seymour done for the country? Nothing. He sought to destroy it by aiding the rebels in the late war and encouraging the riots in New York. Recollect those who opposed the draft and murdered innocent men, women and children are his "friends." But the gallant Grant saved the nation. He won not less than seventeen battles, captured hundreds of thousands of prisoners and took thousands of pieces of artillery. He caught Rebellion by the throat and never let it go till he crushed it to naught. He saved the country, and is acknowledged to be one of the best soldiers of the age. The people should honor their Military Saviour. Blair and Seymour refuse to pay an honest debt, and wish another war to destroy the Government. Grant and Colfax wish to pay the national debt according to the terms of the bargain, and have perpetual peace. Then in the name of honesty—in the name of honor—in the name of peace—in the name of the Republic, let us elect Grant and Colfax.

Splendid School Building.

The Catholics of Allegheny city evince creditable enterprise in the character of the buildings they erect for church and school purposes. At the corner of North and Liberty streets there has just been erected one of the finest school structures in either of our cities. It fronts on Liberty street and runs through to Washington, the lot being one hundred by one hundred and fifty feet, and the building sixty by one hundred and forty feet. The building is three stories high, and constructed in a neat and tasteful modern style. The first floor contains beside the broad hall of entrance, six large, well lighted and ventilated classrooms, furnished in the very best style. The second story is used as a chapel, exclusively for the children of St. Mary's Church, and is handsomely furnished. The third floor is a fine hall, in which a fair is now being held for the benefit of St. Mary's Church, an occasion which we trust will draw thousands of patrons, as the attractions are great. The building as it stands cost, exclusive of the ground on which erected, fifty thousand dollars, and is highly creditable to the congregation of St. Mary's. About seven hundred scholars are in daily attendance at the school, which is free to all.

Fourth Ward, Allegheny, "Minute Men."

This Club having accepted the invitation of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, to attend their announced meeting last evening, on the corner of Beaver avenue and Locust street, nothing daunted by the inclement weather, mustered in considerable force, and preceded by a brass band, paraded through several of the streets to the point designated. Of course the weather would not permit an out-door assemblage, and the meeting was accordingly postponed. Speaking of the Fourth Ward Club, we would simply say that it would be difficult to get up a better equipped and drilled body of men than is comprised in this Club. They have nearly five hundred voters on the roll, the greater portion of whom turn out when the weather is favorable. We learn from Capt. A. P. Callow that the Club has accepted an invitation to participate in the demonstration this evening in the Twenty-third ward.

Rally at the East Liberty Wigwam.

The meeting at the Republican Wigwam in East Liberty, on Thursday evening, was an enthusiastic affair every way. The large building was crowded to its utmost capacity, including a large number of ladies. The meeting was organized by the appointment of Major William Frew. Songs were sung by the East Liberty Glee Club, under the leadership of Professor Lawton, and also by the Lawreneeville Glee Club. Addresses, covering the issues of the campaign, were made by Judge Shannon, Gen. A. L. Pearson and Mr. Cracraft, a young mechanic, all of which were received enthusiastically. The Tanners from the Thirteenth and Sixteenth wards, with a brass band accompanying, were present, contributing considerably to the enthusiasm and eclat of the demonstration.

The "Unterrified" at Elizabeth.

A grand outpouring of the "unterrified" of Elizabeth took place last evening. A wheezy fife and split drum furnished the dulcet strains for the occasion, and after the band had paraded the streets for half the evening, recruits were obtained to the number of one hundred, ranging in age from eight years upwards. They marched in grand array to the residence of Mr. Thos. Farron. Tom. has the reputation of being good on a treat, and this fact formed the principal reason for the visit and magnificent display. On this occasion he was in no degree backward, as the presence of several empty beer kegs subsequently testified. After finishing the beer the crowd dispersed in a drizzling rain, neither dry inside nor outside, but gloriously enthusiastic for Seymour and—Beer.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

SEPARATE.

For the last time, dear, the last, let me hold your hand
Separate forever from to-night we stand.

The flowers grow so thickly o'er the gulf below,
We never thought we neared it till to-night, you know.

Jasmine, roses, heliotrope, blossoms rich and rare;
Filled the eye with loveliness, filled the fragrant air.

Dazzled with their glory, drunken with their scent,
Hand-in-hand to the brink we went.

Heedless where the pathway led, careless of the gaol,
Sweetness, calm, and beauty lapping heart and soul.

Never from the sunny south, from the languid west,
Came the bitter blast that brought reason's searching test.

Black and keen the east wind, through the blossoms blew,
Forcing the clinging tendrils back from where they grew.

Crushed the gorgeous mass of b'ossom, broke the fairy wreath,
Showed in naked ugliness all that lurked beneath.

Dear, good-bye forever, each too weak to stand,
By such graceful danger, lingering hand-in-hand.

The south wind's subtle sweetness would steal the sense again,
The west winds lucious languor lull the lazy brain.

Though the blast blow bitterly, though we shrink and shiver,
Better so than lying lost in that sullen river.

Let the lovely poison leaves wreathe and cling once more,
We have seen beneath the veil—ah, happy blindless over!

The parted paths lie straight and gray, the flowery dream is broken;
Separate forever, dear; our last words are spoken.

—Rev. Dr. John McMasters, writing from Southern Indiana, gives very encouraging hopes for the canvass in that State. He promises that the tidal wave which has set in for Grant and Colfax will lose none of its force in Indiana, as the Republicans are thoroughly organized and zealously prosecuting the work of the campaign. The writer says; "I do not think God will suffer the election of Seymour and Blair over the American people.

—The advantage of having a watch which strikes the hours was experienced by a gentleman in New York a few evenings since. As he was entering Niblo's Theatre his watch was taken. There were several persons around him, and he said: "Gentlemen, I have lost my watch; if you will keep quiet it will strike in one minute." The thief started for the door and was captured.

—An Australian theatrical manager desiring to give effect to a cannibal scene in one of his plays, engaged four natives from up country to do the cannibal part, in which they were instructed by means of signs. The thing took immensely, but when the part of the aborigines came in, they set upon the prostrate hero of the drama, and instead of going through the cannibal performance in fun, went at it in earnest, the "first native" biting the hero ferociously in the leg. The play was stopped by the hero's howling, and the cannibals were sent home.

Discovery Concerning Forks.

Hitherto Fynes Moryson, an Elizabethan traveler, and Thomas Coryat, a Jacobean traveler, have always been quoted, says All the Year Round, as proof of the earliest mention of Forks as a new invention of the Sixteenth century. Moryson says: "At Venice each person was served (besides his knife and spoon) with a fork to hold the meat while he cuts it, for there they deem it ill manners that one should touch it with his hand." Coryat, writing in 1604, describes with his usual Pepysian unction the Venetian custom of forks and umbrellas, and adds of the former, "I myself have thought it good to imitate the Italian fashion since I came home to England;" and describes his merciless friend, Mr. Whittaker, who does not scruple at the table to nickname him "Furciter," from his fantastic predilection to those "Italian neatnesses," namely forks. Now, at the present Art Exhibition at Leeds, there happens to be a singular picture by Bernardino Pinturricchio (1454, 1513) epitomizing events in the history of the Piccolomini of Sienna (No. 11, Gallery A.) In one part of this picture there are tables ready laid out prepared for a banquet. They stand near a buffet of several tiers, on which are arranged gold cups and chased salvers. On the tables you can see a knife and fork laid for every guest, besides a manchet or roll. There are also Venatian enameled red dishes, and, if we remember right, little nosegays placed with great taste for each person. This, therefore, clearly proves that though Voltaire might be hasty in placing the introduction of forks as early as he does, yet that forks were in full use in Italy before 1513. The fact is incontrovertible.

Gold Makes All Things Glitter.

All that is necessary to make the colored man a very respectable person indeed is to have lashings of "tin." If thou wouldst possess honor and glory and be admired of men, "put money in thy purse." The following is a gossipy correspondent's account of the aristocratic colored men of Paris:

Among the wealthy foreign residents of Paris are fifty negro and mulatto families, who hold intercourse with a great many aristocratic French families on terms of perfect equality. Mr. Pontchery, a wealthy negro from Port-au-Prince, lives with his family in one of the finest houses on the Chaussee d'Antin, keeps half a dozen white servants, and was invited last winter to all of M. Rouher's parties. He is a millionaire, and has a very fine gallery of paintings and statuary. Another negro resident of Paris is Candoris, whose father owned a large plantation on the Island of Mauritius. The son sold the plantation, married an English woman at Capetown and went with her to Paris, where he lives now in brilliant style, is one of the boldest operators at the Bourse, and is considered very rich. His children are almost white, and his oldest daughter, a young belle of eighteen, is courted by a great many young officers and others, who seem not to care a fig for her colored descent. Belleisle, a very black negro, owns two or three very large business houses in Paris, where he settled thirty-five or forty years ago, and made money in the oyster trade. He is also married to a white woman. His daughters are all married to Frenchmen.

The State Fair.

A Harrisburg report of the 29th says: The sixteenth annual exhibition of the State Agricultural Society formally opened this morning at ten o'clock. There were 3,465 entries of stock, implements and articles up to five o'clock this afternoon, and during the whole day there was a constant stream of people, vehicles, &c., pouring through the gates. It is not expected that the entries will be complete until to-morrow afternoon, which will be the most interesting period of the Fair. The number of cattle and other stock entered amounts to over 800. Some of the finest trotting horses of the State will be on the fair grounds, and sporting men are anticipating an exciting race to-morrow afternoon. A grand cavalcade of the horse stock occurred this afternoon at two o'clock.

The President and Secretary have been busy all day accommodating exhibitors and visitors. While the entries have been large, and incessantly pouring in, during the first day the patronage has not been very great. Most of the agricultural implements have come from the West, embracing some six hundred. The exhibition of fruits is not extensive, but well selected. All the sewing machines are here, of course, demanding premiums.

An exceedingly large number of articles have been entered in the ladies' and in the art departments. The attraction seems confined among visitors to the home department, which is well filled.

Color Blindness.

In an interesting paper recently laid before the Society of Industrial Sciences at Lyons, France, Professor Fournet announced that he had himself a singular imperfection in the visual organs known under the name of Daltonism, and which is much more common than is generally supposed. The defect consists of an erroneous perception of colors, and is named after Dr. Dalton, a celebrated English physician, who first discovered the peculiarity in himself, and found that cherries and their leaves had for him the same tint. M. Fournet knew two students of the Ecole des Mines, who, having no clear idea of colors, were unable to distinguish the various minerals, and one of them having to use a carmine wash in some drawing, used Indian ink for the purpose. In a long treatise, Dr. Potton, of Lyons, has ranged in the same category a large number of shopmen who were obliged to be dismissed for the simple reason that they could never distinguish the various shades of the stuffs which they had to sell. As this aberration of sight has been the cause of grave errors on railways, the companies' surgeons at present are most particular in testing on this point the candidates for employment. Dr. Favre, at Perrache, stated that the number of applicants whom he has been obliged to refuse because they were incapable of distinctly telling a green light from a red one was very considerable.

RIVER NEWS.

The river still recedes slowly with scant four and a half feet in channel by Monongahela marks. There was a very heavy rain storm late yesterday afternoon which was accompanied with thunder and lightning, but in the evening it looked as though it would clear up again during the night.

There were no arrivals aside from the packets. The Glendale from St. Louis was due light, and will doubtless be found in port this morning. The Camelia is also due here from St. Louis to-day.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving at noon.

The Yorktowd, Capt. G. W Ebbert leaves for Cincinnati and Louisville this evening, without fail, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The Armadillo and Wild Duck, enroute for St. Louis to Pittsburgh, were expected to arrive at Louisville on Wednesday.

The hull of Capt. A. H. Shaw's new Arkansas river boat may be expected here within a day or two.

Capt. Geo. W. Ebbert has a new seven hundred ton boat under contract.

We would uot be surprised to hear of Capt. Robt. Robinson, late of the Kate Robinson, contracting for a new boat. Notwithstanding steamboating is regarded as a pretty hard business, steamboatmen, as a general thing, are not satisfied at anything else.

Capt. Sam French, we understand, is still in the salt business down at Raccoon.

—The Success left New Orleans, for Ouachita, last Monday.

—The Hesper was laid up at Little Rock on Thursday, waiting for business.

—Pat. Carry was drowned from a wharfboat, at St. Paul, on Friday last.

—The Louisville, Capt. Shunk, and St. Marys, Capt. Sweeney, were advertised to leave New Orleans, for Louisville on Tuesday last.

—A shooting affray occurred between Capt. Lew. Watson and Capt. Smith, of the Lida Norwell, at Vicksburg recently, in which both parties were wounded.

—The system of numbering the merchant marine of the United States will be extended to barges, flats, &c., as soon as the necessary preparations are made in the Treasury Department at Washington.

—On the last trip of the Mollie Able, from New Orleans, the wife of Geo. V. Hull, a merchant of New Orleans, presented him with a fine daughter, a mile beyond Carondelet. The baby was christened Mollie Able, in honor of the vessel.

—The Cairo Democrat, of Monday, says: The steamers John Kilgour and Richmond, which have been lying up during the summer months, undergoing repairs, and being repainted, will soon leave. The Richmond is to enter the Memphis and New Orleans trade, and the Kilgour the Ohio and Mississippi river trade. They are both splendid steamers.

—The Cincinnati Commercial, of Thursday, says: The competition in Arkansas river freights is slacking off, the rates to that classic stream having advanced a little, but hardly enough as yet, to pay our energetic boatmen, who always put through freights cheaper from Cincinnati, than is usually the case from St. Louis, or any other first-class market. The Memphis packets receipts Arkansas freights through expeditiously, while Capt. Yerkes is also doing the same with the Cora S, plying regularly between Cincinnati and Fort Smith. The efferings are fair for all points at the following low rates: To Pittsburgh and Wheeling, 15 to 20c; St. Louis, 30c; Ohio river, 15 to 20c; Nashville and Memphis, 30 to 40c, and New Orleans, 40 to 50c per cwt. The towboat Tigress having repaired her collapsed boiler, was preparing to depart for Pittsburgh last evening.

—Says the Cincinnati Gazette of Thursday: The Kate Putnam, Pittsburgh to St. Louis, passed down yesterday. She partially loaded last week at Pittsburgh, at 25c; but Matthews' barges came into the ring, and the America, Leonidas and Belle Vernon besides, which caused it to be hot for her, and she "lit out," expecting to fill up at Wheeling, at which she was disappointed. The prevailing rate of Pittsburgh this week is 10c to St. Louis. This rate has been adopted in order to run Matthews out. The Putman offered to take freight at Wheeling at 16c, but could get none. Pilots Wm. Gosney and Wm. Henderson brought her here, where she changed for Moses Sullivan and John Scott.

The Gazette is mistaken in regard to freight to St. Louis being down to 10 cents. So far as we can learn there has but little if any taken below twenty.

DISEASED LUNGS.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be, and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborative functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing of the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs, the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out of the animal economy all effete and used up material. Dr. K. says that he has known the most distressing and harassing coughs, whose vibrations would threaten to shake the whole constitution to pieces, removed in the course of a few days. In long standing cases of consumption, or of other sometimes fatal but always troublesome and annoying maladies, known as catarrh, chronic bronchitis, trachitis or pharyngitis, it is a wonderful alleviating medicine in the former and a sure cure in the latter disease.

DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE IS ENRICHED BY SOME OF THE MOST VALUABLE PLANTS AND HERBS KNOWN TO BE USEFUL AND CURATIVE IN ALL DETERIORATED STATES OF THE HUMAN BLOOD, and whilst it adds to its plasma, it at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to sufficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine, and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable and so most surely fatal.

GEN. WM. LARIMER has been nominated by the Republicans of Leavenworth District, Kansas, for the State Senate.

SECRETARY SEWARD is understood to be politically "on the fence." The place suits the man and the man adorns the place.

REMEMBER!

That every man whose name is not on the Assessor's list to-night, will seek in vain to have it added afterwards!

THE HON. HENRY WILSON, of Massachusetts, will speak in this city on the evening of the 7th instant. The place where the meeting will be held will be designated hereafter.

WE ARE glad to know that the HON. H. W. WILLIAMS has accepted the appointment as one of the Judges of the Supreme Court; has requested that his commission may be forwarded to Philadelphia; and has gone thither from Mount Morris, New York, where he was visiting, to be sworn in.

THE unanimity with which the general movement in Spain, dethroning the Bourbons, is accepted in those provinces where that dynasty possessed, but a few years since, the strongest hold on the popular affections, is very justly regarded as conclusive against any prospect for their restoration to the sovereignty.

VIGILANCE COMMITTEES!

Have you examined the Assessor's list of your district? Have you noted the suspicious assessments of the Democrats? Have your hunted up all your own men whose names are not on the lists? If not, see to it now. On Monday it will be too late.

LET "plow-holders" remember that Messrs PENDLETON, VALLANDIGHAM, and the great body of Democratic Representatives in Congress in '62 voted to pay the "bloated bondholder" his interest in gold; they did not then think the people's currency good enough for "a privileged class." Let any man who doubts this fact be convinced by examining the Congressional Globe of that session.

IT IS SUGGESTED, in several quarters likely to be well informed, that SEYMOUR is about to withdraw from the Democratic ticket, and yield the place to MCCLELLAN. Unless all signs are deceitful, there are very curious things to happen before the November election, and the public need not be astonished if one of these should be a reconstruction of the Democratic ticket, after the adverse result of the October elections.

ASSESSMENTS.

The Democratic Assessors have been notified not to assess any Republican who does not apply personally for assessment. This rule is all well enough, if made general; but if made to apply only to Republicans, we object to it most decidedly. The practice of these Assessors is to assess any Democrat whose name is handed to them, and the application of a different rule to others is characteristic of a party that depends exclusively upon fraud and trickery, for whatever chances of success it may pride itself upon expecting.

THE COURTS—NATURALIZATION.

If any man in Pennsylvania has been waiting for evidence to work upon his mind the conviction that the Courts are as corrupt as any other bodies in existence, he ought to find it abundantly in the manner in which the whole business of naturalizing foreigners is ordinarily conducted. That the admission of a person born in one country to citizenship in another ought to be attended with formalities commensurate to the importance of the proceeding itself, is attested by the consent and practice of all nations from the highest antiquity down to the present time. If this rule is properly observed in transfering allegiance from one monarchy to another, much more ought to be respected in adopting citizens from a monarchy, with its peculiar traditions and educational forces, into a republic, which rests upon a totally different basis, and hence is beset by perils peculiar to that form of political organization. If the conveyance of title to a paltry piece of land cannot be perfected without such definite proofs and permanent record as will make the fact clear and unquestionable for all time, the transfer of allegiance from one government to another ought to be made with such certainty and publicity as to stamp it with high significance and render it susceptible of plainest proof ever after. Such is the clear intent and meaning of the existing laws of Congress on this subject. The shameless manner in which those laws are evaded, and the equally shameless way in which the Courts lend themselves to the lowest debaucheries of the baser sort of politicians, is a sign of impressive and ominous import. When the appointed guardians of public justice cannot be trusted, when the conviction becomes almost universal that they connive at multitudinous frauds, and even actually participate therein, it would seem that the foundations of civic order must be hopelessly rotten. It is no answer to these incriminating statements to say that concessions to the exactions of either political party are venal. A Judge or other officer of a Court who will depart from the strict line of his duty in administering the naturalization laws is approachable for criminal ends in private business transactions, and will pervert justice through spite or to gain pecuniary advantage.

A full consideration of the boundless dishonesty almost invariably attending the process of naturalization has inclined us to look with favor upon the plan of admitting to the right of suffrage every adult male resident upon oath, duly taken and registered, that he abjures allegiance to the government under which he was born, and bears and will continue to bear, genuine fealty to the laws and constituted authorities of this country. The perjuries and forgeries which the naturalization system now in use occasion are absolutely appalling. It would be unreasonable to charge those offences upon the system; but as long as the naturalization laws are so generally circumvented that every foreigner does vote unless prevented by a sense of personal honor, there would seem to be no utility in them. They stand mainly as provocations to crime of the most serious moral gravity.

Be this as it may, this much is plain, either these laws ought to be sacredly enforced, or repealed. The utter profligacy of the Courts which they expose, if they do not engender, in whole or in part, is an indication that cannot any longer be overlooked.

In speaking thus broadly and emphatically, we do not mean to be understood as affirming that none of the Judges and none of the Clerks of the Courts are actuated and controlled by integrity of purpose in this or in other matters; an honest man was found in Sodom; and there are honest men connected with the administration of justice. What we assert is that honest Judges and Clerks constitute a minority of their respective orders. A Judge or a Clerk who will lend himself as a tool to a political party to effect illegal naturalizations can be bribed to do any unlawful or immoral act in affairs pertaining to his office.

If the Prothonotary of the Supreme Court has issued certificates of naturalization in blank, he ought promptly to be indicted and, upon conviction, sent to the penitentiary, as the laws ordain. If the Chief Justice or any of his Associates have consented to, or had knowledge, that the Prothonotary was proceeding in this manner, he or they ought to be both indicted and impeached. It is the sublimation of folly periodically to make outcries about naturalization frauds and then allow the culprits to escape the punishment or degradation which the laws provide.

In very many of the counties in which the Courts of Common Pleas are not necessarily in constant session, those Courts now regularly hold special meetings just prior to each important election for the purpose of facilitating naturalizations. If individuals had suits pending in those Courts, involving their dearest interests, and which there was urgent need of having speedily decided, it would be in vain to appeal to the Judges to depart from the ordinary course of sittings. But political parties want votes, and Judges do not hesitate to display their zeal by holding as many special sessions as their favorite party finds it convenient to have. This is a practical commentary of no light moment, on the professions of the Courts, not to participate in partisan contests.

Having gone so far, we elect to go farther, and raise another point.

There is and can be, from the very nature of the case, no law of Pensylvania, or of any ether State, regulating the terms and process of naturalization. Congress determines the conditions upon which aliens may be admitted to citizenship, prescribes the formalities by which the process shall be consummated, and who shall conduct and attest them. All Courts of the United States, and all Courts of Record in the respective States, are empowered to naturalize foreigners.

By the Constitution of Pennsylvania it is made a penal offence for any person to hold an office under the government of the United States while holding one under the government of this Commonwealth. An individual so offending may be proceeded against by indictment, and upon conviction be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both.

In what capacity do Judges and Prothonotaries of Courts of Pednsylvania act when naturalizing aliens? Is the function judicial or only notarial? Upon the solution of this question the whole case turns. We make no pretensions to an amount of legal knowledge sufficient to authorize us to expound and decide this matter.

Pennsylvania has not authorized its Courts to meddle in this business. It has exhibited a sensitiveness to connections between its functionaries and the national government. The prohibition to which we have referred was put into the draft of the State Constitution by a Convention largely Democratic, and the Constitution was ratified when the Democrats held decisive majorities in the State.

When Pennsylvania Courts sit to administer the naturalization laws of Congress, they seem to sit, ex-officio, as Courts of the United States. It was their habit, down to a quite recent period, to preserve all the formalities of other judicial proceedings while attending to this business; and these formalities wherever abandoned, have been abandoned only in compliance with the behests of party leaders and for ends which are in plain and criminal antagonism to the letter and intent of the laws.

Let this point be adjudged as it may be, there is no obligation resting upon Pennsylvania Courts to administer the naturalization laws. They may or may not naturalize at their option. Nor is there any clause in the Constitution of the United States, or of this State, which prevents our Legislature from providing that our Courts shall exercise no function under the laws of Congress. Nor yet is there legal hindrance in the way of such an amendment of the State Constitution as shall not allow voting upon naturalization papers until six or twelve months after the issuing of them. We do not advocate the adoption of either of these measures, for we have already indicated what we regard as the best remedy for the evils under consideration; but if the people are not prepared to accept those broad views of liberty and equality, they have only a narrow choice of remedies.

Citizenship is a right that ought not to be trifled with. To confer it illegally is just as grave an outrage upon naturalized as native citizens. Many of the most valuable men in the country were not born in it. Every good man or woman imported is a decided gain; for such are the richest glory of any nation. It matters nothing where a person was born, or of what stock, if good qualities are in him or her. But it matters much to any citizen or inhabitant to enforce obedience to the laws, and preserve the Courts from corruption. The prevailing tide of judicial venality and political demoralization in respect to naturalizations is sweeping away the sentiment of honor in the management of the Democratic party, and is invading all other departments of the national life. It must be stayed, or all confidence in the Courts will be destroyed.

LOOK AT THE ASSESSMENTS.

Republican voter! Do you know that your name is upon the list of voters of your election district? If you do not, see to it at once. Go and examine the list posted at the election ground, and satisfy yourself of the fact. If your name is not there, go without further delay to the Assessor and have your name added. This is the last day for that purpose, prior to the October election. Do not risk your vote by neglecting this matter. It is every man's business to see to the protection of his own rights.

BLAIR and his Party of Anarchy find some very serious obstacles in the way of carrying out their mad schemes. For example, they have proposed to admit Texas, Virginia and Mississippi to the Electoral College, in defiance of the express letter of law which excludes those unreconstructed States. And we are still confident that this intention has not been abandoned, although two of the Military Commanders, GILLEM in Mississippi and REYNOLDS in Texas, have issued special orders that no attempt to take any part in that election can be permitted in those States. But this attempt will be made, with the support of the Ku-Klux, and with the heartiest co-operation of those Northern Copperheads who have so lately endorsed and approved a letter on the same subject which Mr. PENDLETON declares to be a forgery. The rebels are unanimous in demanding, either that their construction of the Constitution shall rule, or else that there shall be a "revolution,"—their name for another civil war. The entire body of the Southern Democracy say that these three States shall vote, and the Copperheads support the demand. They hint that their Ku-Klux are strong enough to put the project through, regardless of the Federal power. They will make the trial, and we shall see how it comes out.

IT SEEMS that it was Judge SHARSWOOD who reversed the decision of Judge THOMPSON, and ordered that a publication of the naturalization lists should be permitted. The former took pains to say that he "deemed it of great public importance that the lists should be made public." Upon this matter, the Harrisburg Telegraph observes:

This decision of Judge Sharswood is a direct rebuke, and might be termed an insult to Chief Justice Thompson, who, on the day before, descended from the bench, questioned one of the Court reporters what he was doing, and when informed that he was taking the names of persons naturalized, the Judge took the papers from him, tore them up and threw them into the waste basket with a remark that he did not allow these proceedings to be published. We hope this insult will lead to Mr. Thompson's immediate resignation, but it need not be expected.

WATCH THE ENEMY!

Next to the importance of attending to your own assessment is that of watching the enemy and spotting every suspicious man assessed by the Democrats. Fraud is their last and only hope!

A BUSINESS VIEW OF BLAIR.

Hundreds of the Manufacturers, Mechanics and Merchants of Philadelphia, who are in favor of "such action as will firmly establish peace, prosperity and confidence in our business relations with the world" signed a call for a Grant and Colfax Mass Meeting, which was held in that city on Wednesday evening. We know the business men of Pittsburgh feel an interest, as deep as do their Philadelphia friends, in the securing of such a result to the present canvass as will encourage them to rely upon a peaceful and prosperous future for their trade. And we know that they already foresee that, in the turbulent and disastrous times which must inevitably follow the election of candidates openly pledged to set the laws at defiance, and to trample the Constitution under foot, the leading industries of Allegheny county will again suffer as they did in 1861. Inaugurate BLAIR, with his unconstitutional violence and military despotism, and how long do our business men suppose that the country, realizing too late its terrible mistake, will supinely permit the red-handed revolution, which overturns States and governments with the bayonets of a Dictator, to go on? And what do they think will then follow? How much Southern trade will they find either accessible or desirable, in the dark days which must then come upon the land? Will they not rather, each and all of them, in the very hour when the election of the Democratic ticket is made known, begin to consider how to put their affairs in trim for the coming storm, getting everything well in hand, so that mills, factories and shops may be closed before the storm shall break? Are they not already prudently forbearing any increase of business until they shall see the issue of this canvass? And why? Because every man, who has the intelligence and foresight to conduct any considerable business, sees clearly the direct bearings of this election upon his personal interests, and risks as little as possible before its issue is decided.

Would it not be well then, for the business men of a community so deeply interested as ours, to hold one general mass meeting, for the express purpose of considering the canvass in its purely business aspects?

THE ONLY DEMOCRATIC HOPE.

It is clearly apparent that the Democracy no longer rely upon argument or any lawful method of electioneering, to carry Pennsylvania. Thinking that nothing is to be gained in that direction, they have organized the most audacious and shameless schemes of fraud in every section of the State. The attempt by one of their partizans to put through some of this rascally work in this and Westmoreland counties was exposed in our local columns yesterday, while the annexed statements in the Philadelphia Bulletin of Thursday evening show the desperate lengths to which their leaders are going in that quarter. It is gratifying to remark the promptitude with which all this systematic scoundrelism is being surveiled and put on trial for punishment. Mark what the Bulletin says:

Last night a scene occurred at the Baltimore depot which leaves no doubt as to who these political swindlers and counterfeiters are, nor how they propose to do their work. When the night train reached the Broad and Prime street depot, Governor Swann, of Maryland, with a gang of Baltimore roughs and roudies, numbering over one hundred men, left the train. The lot must have been regarded as a choice one when Governor Swann thought it not beneath his dignity to marshal it himself. This raid was anticipated by two parties. Two committees of reception awaited the arrival of the train. One consisted of the following highly distinguished citizens of Philadelphia: Messrs. R. J. Hemphill, Chairman of the City Executive Committee; Alfred Fletcher, Democratic candidate for Prothonotary Court of Common Pleas; J. Travis Quigg, Democratic candidate for the Legislature; Samuel J. Randall, member of Congress; Samuel Josephs, candidate for Legislature; G. W. Johnson, Charles B. Duncan, candidates for Aldermen in the Ninth ward, and Thomas B. Florence, Democratic candidate for Congress. The Committee had evidently made all their arrangements for the location of this precious invoice of Southern ruffians, and but for the presence of another less distinguished, but not less valuable committee of our citizens, they would have carried out their plans. They were a quiet set of men, in plain clothes and with few words, but their appearance on the scene acted like magic on Gov. Swann's bodyguard. They broke and ran like the blackest of sheep in every direction. The police contrived to capture about a dozen of them, and will probably secure more of them today, when, if Messrs. Hemphill and Randall can rally their scattered forces in time, they will turn up at the several places of assessment.

We copy also the Bulletin's comments:

When we find Governor Swann marshalling an invasion of imported voters, the Honorable Samuel J. Randall endorsing orders for fraudulent naturalization papers, and joining in the reception of a gang of Baltimore thieves and ruffians; Mr. Robert J. Hemphill, with his Democratic candidates for Congress and the Legislature, assemble in the outskirts of the town at midnight to aid in the nefarious scheme, surely it is time for the people to be alarmed. Surely it is time for decent men of all parties to crush these men out of political existence, and to save the ballot-box from their desecrations before it is forever too late.

PHIL. SHERIDAN.

"It is a far cry" from the extreme Kansas border to the Atlantic coast, but the Hero of Winchester, although many times "twenty miles away" from his friends, the Boys in Blue, dispatched the following greeting to this great assemblage:

FORT HARKER, KANSAS,
September 30th, 1868.

To Gen. Charles H. T. Collis, Philadelphia:
Say to the Boys in Blue that it is as essential to have a political victory this fall as to have an Appomattox in 1865, and that every man who loves his country should vote for Grant. PH. H. SHERIDAN,
Major General, U. S. A.

THE Democracy are not suffered to carry out their infernal plots, for swamping the ballot-boxes in Philadelphia, by colonizing and fraudulently naturalizing voters, even with the connivance of the Supreme Court, without encountering some very serious difficulties. Some of the assessors have been arrested, a large number of the newly-made "citizens" are destroying their fraudulent papers, and not a few Democratic colonists are already in custody. Our friends will submit to no frauds, after their character is exposed.

WHY should Mr. PENDLETON hasten to disclaim as a forgery the letter to KINNEY, of Texas, urging that people to vote for the Presidency. No law excludes them from such participation except that known as the Edmunds act, passed just before the close of the late session, and this act was a clearly logical and just appendage to those reconstruction laws which Mr. PENDLETON, in common with all his party, denounces as "usurpations, unconstitutional, revolutionary and void." No, Mr. PENDLETON, we understand each other very well already. Holding the opinions you do, you must consistently acknowledge the claim of your Texas compatriots to take part in the election, and your plausible disclaimer of express advice to that effect is only a blind which deceives no one. You say the Kinney letter was forged; we say that the forger knew his man and did him no injustice. He knew, as all the world knows, that PENDLETON and every other Northern Democrat are to-day upholding BLAIR and WADE HAMPTON, in their rebel assault upon the Federal Constitution and Laws, and that they conscientiously sustain the demand that rebels and traitors shall regain the control of this government, or they will once more fight. That is what they mean, and what all of them say, who dare to say what they mean.

THE Southern rebels groan in despair over the unseasonable frankness of the Tuscaloosa Monitor, in illustrating, by its miserable wood-cut which we copied last week, the kind intentions of those people towards Northern citizens found in that region after the election. They do not dissent from the proposition to hang the carpet-baggers, but think it was very indiscreet to disclose the purpose just now. For example, the Montgomery Mail says:

"The wood-cut, we fear, is good for a loss of five or ten thousand votes from those who would otherwise have voted the Democratic ticket. It may lose us Ohio, and, in that event, will lose us the election and keep the radicals in power four years longer. It is a terrible thing, after the laber we have undergone, the pangs we have endured, the hopes which we have clung to, the endurance to which we have nerved ourselves, to see the rising temple of liberty burnt to the ground by a torch flung among the shavings."

Lake Harbor Improvements.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BUFFALO, October 2.—Great progress has been made this season in the improvements for the harbors of Buffalo and Dunkirk. The works at the entrance of Buffalo harbor will be completed this month. As soon as sufficient ice has formed, the work on the harbor of Refugee will be commenced. Cribs will be laid on the ice, ballasted and sunk on the line adopted, and by spring the harbor of Refugee wil be in a condition to afford vessels entering a safe harbor. The bulk-head west of Dummy Light, at Dunkirk, has been completed. The contract for the building of the bulk-head west of the Dummy has been entered into, and operations will be commenced early in the spring.

A SLIGHT COLD, COUGH,

Or SORE THROAT may be checked if a reliable remedy is applied at once, but if neglected very soon preys upon the lungs, and the result may prove fatal. The past few weeks of changeable temperature and cold rains are fruitful sources of troubles of the lungs, throat and chest. If you are attacked by a cold, no matter how slight, use at once

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP,

Which is an old and well tried remedy for COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, and all Affections of the Pulmonary Organs.

DR SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP

Is entirely free from any deleterious ingredient, and can be given with perfect safety to the youngest child.

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP

Gives sure and almost immediate relief to hoarseness and that annoying sensation, tickling, in the throat. If you would obtain a reliable remedy, be sure and call for

DR. SARGENT'S COUGH SYRUP.

If your Druggist does not keep it, ask him to get it for you.

WE ARE NOT CAST IRON.

Cast Iron undergoes marked changes under the alternate action of heat and cold, and the human body is not cast iron. On the contrary, it is a combination of delicate tissues and fibres, which are exquisitely sensitive to atmospheric changes, and, unless protected against sudden and violent variations of temperature by wise precautions, are sure to be disastrously affected by them.

At this season the difference between the temperature of night and day is greater than at any other period of the year, and the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the nervous system are apt to receive violent shocks from these changes, resulting in indigestion, bilious attacks, debility, low nervous fever, fever and ague, remittent fever, &c. Sustain and reinforce these organs, therefore, with the purest and most potent of all vegetable tonics and alteratives, viz: HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. The effect of this matchless invigorant is to brace up the whole vital organization, and regulate its action. Useful at all seasons as a means of promoting perfect digestion, an even and natural flow of bile, and a healthy condition of the bowels and the skin, it is especially necessary in the Fall when the complaints arising from checked perspiration are so common. It is found, by those who are in the habit of using this agreeable and unequalled tonic, that it so strengthens and fortifies the body as to render it proof against the morbid influences which infect the air during the prevalence of epidemics.

DISEASED LUNGS.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborative functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing of the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out the animal economy all effete and used up material. Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is enriched by some of the most valuable plants and herbs known to be useful and curative in all deteriorated states of the human blood, and whilst it adds to its plasma, it at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to sufficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine, and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable, and so most surely fatal. Let any one afflicted with any pulmonary disease try but one bottle, and they will be convinced of the value of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle at Dr. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood st.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, October, 2, 1868.

Gold was firmer to-day, at 139½ to 139¾; closing at the former figure; the tendency is downward so long as government is selling, and money seven per cent for call loans. Should gold decline much below its present prices, then a sharp reaction must follow as it is evidently the cheapest article in the market, and an advance above its real value, must be looked for. It seems that the government had not calculated to sell gold at present prices, but was forced to by the banks drawing the currency on their 3 per cent certificates. The state of our export trade will not yet warrant a heavy decline of gold unless there should be heavy export demand for bonds by actual investors in Europe, and not by speculative holders. But after all it is only defering payment to a future period, and will be heavier on us to pay them.

In Government bonds a sharp reaction took place, and if it can be dependent on indications, the market is likely to go much higher next week. 1862s have advanced ¾ per cent.; '64s, ¾; '65s, ½; '68s, ⅝, and Ten Forties, ¾ If the banks are free discounters on Monday, an advance of 2 pea cent. may be looked for, and stocks may be depressed or rather neglected. The stock dealers were free buyers during the depressed, having secured cheap money in advance, but the government speculators were already heavily loaded down with bonds, and could not procure money cheap enough to buy when the market was at it its lowest point

Stocks are strong, and are tending upward; the coming week may witness a big rise.

Business is very dull.

Closing quotations as received by Ph. R. Mertz: Gold, 139½; United States 1881s, 113¾; Five Twenties, 1862, 112¾; do '64s, 110¾; do '65s, 109¾; do '65s, new, 108; do '67s, 108¼; do '68s, 108½; Ten Forties, 104¼. A resolution was offered on 'Change in Chicago the other day denouncing what is technically termed a "corner," as injurious to the best interests of the Grain trade in Chicago. The hearty approval with which the resolution was received is a good indication, showing that even in Chicago, operators are becoming disgusted with the manipulating of the market, and the parties who form a combination of this kind and come out of it second best, as is generally the case, need not expect much sympathy from the public at large. We never had a "corner" in Corn here, but several attempts have been made to "corner" the oil market, and in nearly every instance, the parties trying to make the "corner" got worsted. The oil business has become too extensive to be controlled by a clique or cliques, with any degree of success, and we predict that in the future, as in the past, all movements of this kind will result disastrously to those having it in charge.

—Says the Chicago Tribune of Thursday: The excessively bad weather to-day has depressed business in thegoods trades, and the still drooping prices of Wheat, and the corner in Corn, have brought legitimate business in the grain line almost to a dead lock, so that there is very little grain going forward, and the course of every kind of business is to some extent unsettled. Prices of the two grains mentioned have continued to go up for Corn and down for Wheat, so much contrary to the expectations of many that one heavy failure—that of E. V. Robbins & Co.—has been the result, and it is not improbable that some smaller operators are being seriously crippled. The active demand for Money continues but banks still accommodate all of their customers, others are putting them off until after statement day.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, October 2, 1868.

CRUDE.

The market was again very sensitive today, and while there was next to nothing done, a firmer feeling seemed to develope itself, especially late in the day, but whether it will amount to anything important, time alone will tell. We have but a single sale to report 900 bbls spot at 12; and this may be regarded as the ruling figure, as we are cognizant of other offers to sell at the same figure. Advices from Oil City report a firmer market and higher figures, which is attributed to the fact that Cleveland buyers are again in the field in considerable force, and advance is nearly always established when Cleveland enters the market,

REFINED.

The Refined market was also very sensitive to-day, and, as in the case of Crude, there was but little done. We can report sales in lots of 3,000 bbls, all for the last half of October at 31c, while late in the day there were offers for the same delivery at at 31¼c, and some holders were asking 31½c. The advance was attributed to a Pittsburgh operator buying pretty freely in Philadelphia; and from this, it is fair te infer, that there were few, if any, buyers aside from the one just referred to. It is said that there are a good many "short" sellers for October, and it is this, more than anything else, that strengthens the impression that prices will rule higher during the month, as it is thought the "shorts" will be anxious to "cover up." October promises to be fully as interesting in the oil business as September was.

PITTSBURGH METAL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, October 2, 1868.

The metal market is steady and prices are well sustained, notwithstanding manufacturers of bar iron and nails realize very small margins, and leading forge irons, in consequence of diminished supplies, are held with even more firmness than last week. Consumers, in order to cheapen their mixtures, are buying more freely of medium and low grade descriptions, which, of course, tends somewhat to stiffen the general tone of the market. the following sales were reported:

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

KANSAS.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LAWRENCE, Sept. 26, 1868.

I have been travelling about for some ten days in all directions from this city—some miles northward, as far southward as Ottawa—thirty miles, and to Junction City westward, and really were I asked which part is best I could not tell. It is all very good. The broad level bottom of the Kansas river has the richest and deepest soil—in some places eight to ten feet of black sandy loam; but nearly all the higher and rolling prairies have soil far deeper than ever the plough can reach. I think that for wheat culture the higher lands are preferable to the river bottom, as they certainly are better for all kinds of fruits. They are more beautiful and pleasant; the gentle undulations of occasional bluffs and knolls render them extremely picturesque. The country south of this city is full of farms, many of them well improved, while the numerous streams are all broadly belted with timber. From any little eminence their courses can be traced by these belts of timber for many miles, while the intervening grassy prairies, cultivated farms, houses, orchards and villages, all combine to form magnificent landscapes.

While at Ottawa I found the hotels crowded with men in search of land. A reference to the registers showed that Ohio was more largely represented than any other state. Next to that Indiana and Illinois, while the States further east had a few representatives. The Neosho valley is drawing strongly, and so I am told is the region around Salina, including the valleys of the Saline and Salomon. Another strong stream of immigration is setting in towards the valleys of the Republican, the Big Blue and the intervening country. Some push out far towards the borders, where stock-raising may be prosecuted to better advantage; while others seek locations where they can at once enjoy social, educational and religious advantages.

Day before yesterday I took the train on the Union Pacific Railway, E. D., to go up to Manhattan and Junction City, the latter of which is three miles beyond Fort Riley, and about one hundred miles west of this city. Manhattan is twenty miles this side. I was surprised to find so many people traveling; and another thing which attracted the attention of our little party—Judge Agnew, of our Supreme Court, and his two daughters, and a gentleman from St. Louis—was the marked intelligence and energy of the passengers. It is no ordinary class of people who are pushing their way into this magnificent region; and when, after a few years of vigorous and well directed industry, they shall have improved it as such men can improve it, there will probably not be anything to equal it on the globe.

I find that very many who purchase lands in the more settled parts, content themselves with eighty acres, or half of a quarter section—80 by 160 perches. It is enough in such a country as this where every acre is available, and where the soil is so strong that there is no necessity to leave it half the time resting. I read not long ago an article in an agricultural paper, in which the writer advised farmers to double the quantity of their land, not by doubling the number of their acres, but by doubling the depth of their soil. Measured by that rule, eighty acres of Kansas soil is a big farm. This contentment with small tracts is wisdom on their part; for the money which they would be required to buy another eighty acres can be better employed in improving the first eighty. Wealthy men may with propriety purchase more; but it is bad policy for a comparatively poor man to put nearly all his means into land, which, when he has it, he is unable to cultivate, or to go in debt, and thus keep his nose to the grindstone at the very time when he is least able to bear the operation.

When I wrote some letters from Kansas last year I spoke of the exceeding thrift and beauty of fruit trees in this State. This time I have had an opportunity of seeing and tasting the fruit they produce; and I have no hesitation in saying that I never saw such apples and peaches anywhere, especially the latter. The peach crop was very abundant wherever there were trees old enough to bear. In size, in flavor, in richness of color and cleanness of skin, this is true. Even the seedlings surpassed the finest I saw in Pittsburgh before I left home. It is my impression that ere long the business of canning peaches will become important and profitable one in this State. Grapes do better here than any place I ever saw, and for size and richness of bloom they excel any I ever tasted. The highest grounds are the best for them, as indeed they are for fruit of all kinds.

A nurseryman told me the other day that the ailanthus, which grows with great rapidity here, is an excellent and durable wood for fence posts, being only second to locust and cedar. I expressed surprise at this, but he assured me that it was so. They are grown in great numbers by nurserymen. The common locust grows very rapidly until attacked by borers. One man told me that where they are planted all over a field like an orchard, only greatly more crowded, the borer has little effect upon them. In many parts of this State cedars grow naturally. I have seen some cedar posts.

Fruit trees are planted much closer here than with us. Twenty feet asunder is enough for apple trees. Trees seem to have a kind of instinct; and where they are required to resist an almost constant breeze they grow more sturdy, and do not send their boughs away off from the trunk as they do with us. This is true of all trees, but especially fruit trees.

The Osage orange is very largely used for hedges, and with the most satisfactory result. Some farmers, however, prefer to enclose their fields with stone, which, on most farms, can be done very well at moderate expense. The magnesian limestone, which is found in all the bluffs, make the best stone fences I ever saw. This is because they generally lie in layers of uniform thickness, from four to fourteen and sixteen inches. Wire is pretty extensively used in the more Western settlements on new farms. Sometimes three, but more frequently four, strands are used, which are passed through holes in the posts. These are set from eight to fifteen feet asunder, and are frequently quite small.

I intended to say something about the lateral railroads of this State, but I have already made this letter quite long enough. In another, I must tell you what I saw at Junction City, and other places up the road.

Coming to Grief.

Delmar, the statistician of the Treasury Department, is likely to come to grief, so far as his figures are concerned. The Secretary of the Treasury says they are entirely incorrect and misrepresent facts. General Spinner says the true records of the department will show that Delmar's figures are deliberate falsifications. It is understood that a prominent official of the Treasury Department will, at the request of the Secretary, prepare an official statement of all items purporting to be given by Delmar. This will be taken from the books and official records of the Department, and will give a complete account of the receipts and expenses of the Government.

The Oil Revival at Pleasantville.

The Titusville Herald prints a letter dated September 24th, from which we quote:

In this particular section, at the present writing, politics are seldom thought of, the people are so absorbed in oil. Everybody, will talk of leases, and fee simples, and fractional interest, and wells, productions, etc., but politics are almost tabooed.

You have already heard that Pleasantville is the new land of promise—the Mecca of every pilgrim. Six months ago it was a delightful village of about one thousand inhabitants. There was a single hotel and perhaps half a dozen business establishments. Everybody admired the handsome gardens and pretty houses strung along the road, but if one had predicted that Pleasantville was the site of the largest "oil basin" yet discovered, he would have been deemed a proper candidate for the nearest lunatic asylum. Yet, indeed, it has so become. The development of a hundred barrel well, at once attracted the attention of operators in general, and from that time till the present there has been an incessant tide of travel, and steadily increasing investments at the great oil centre. The population of the place has trebled within the period indicated, and the great problem has been how to accommodate the people. Hotels and boarding houses are constantly filled to overflowing, and the Chase House, a building which originally cost seventy thousand dollars, has been removed from Pithole, to meet the necessities of the rising old metropolis. An opera house has been transported from the same place and re-erected here, and now does a better business in the line of popular entertainment than Pithoie ever witnessed at the palmiest "stage" of inflation. Forty or fifty hacks run between Titusville and Pleasantville, a distance of six miles, making three or four trips per day, and loaded with passengers. Anybody who is familiar with the daily panorama of a thriving "oil town" will recognize many of its characteristics in Pleasantville. Horses dragging themselves to death, drivers exposed to all weather, carpenters piling up derricks; drillers dropping the everlasting "thud," engines puffing, whistles screaming, petroleum spirting, machinery pounding, inn-keepers, cooks and waiters always on the go, grocers and merchants packing and unpacking, speculators busy at maps, lawyers drawing papers and ferreting out titles, boys hawking papers, hackmen yelling; but amid all this are the features of an established civilization, essential churches, flourishing schools, home life, good fare, comfortable rest, law and order, and a hallowed Sabbath; for Pleasantville, under the administration of Burgess Beebe, is the best governed town in the oil region.

There are now about forty-eight wells at Pleasantville, and the oil production is between 2,500 and 2,600 barrels per day. There has been no single instance of failure to procure oil, and although the wells are not large, probably none exceeding 150 barrels per day, there is but one other district in the oil region that has a larger daily production. The oil is found mostly in the fifth sand rock, at the depth of 825 feet. The extent of the producing territory is still a matter of conjecture, but the belt ranges at least two and a half miles in width and has developed longitudinally a distance of between three and four miles. Such a field of operations must require a long time to exhaust, and after a careful survey of the general indications, I should estimate a continually increasing production for at least a year to come. Operators who took advantage of the early developments and secured territory at a low price, have realized very handsomely from the result of their investments.

Hail.—The first hail of the season fell last evening about six o'clock. The hail was pretty large, and fell in considerable quantities for about half an hour.

A meeting will be held by the Republicans at Hazlewood station, on the Connellsville Railroad, this evening. A free excursion train will leave the depot at half past six o'clock, and return the same evening.

Erratum.—The concluding paragraph of Mr. John H. Jones' affidavit contained an error reading: "I reside at the corner of Smallman and Thirteenth streets," It should have read, as in copy, corner of Smallman and Thirtieth streets.

Obstructed.—What with the material for the new sewer and the obstruction caused by the building of the same, old boxes and barrels, and gentlemen of leisure, Federal street for some distance above the Railroad crossing, is pretty well blocked up.

The Republicans of Birmingham, at their meeting on Thursday evening, appointed the following committee to make arrangements for a grand demonstration on the South Side, prior to the coming election: D. C. Ripley, N. B. Hartzell and William Webber.

Don't Work Very Well.—The new patent sweeper was tested yesterday over the Nicholson pavement, on Wood and Fifth streets, but from some cause or other did not give much satisfaction. Mr. Porter is determined to give the invention a fair trial, and see what there is in it.

Leg Broken.—A driver named King, employed by Hussey, Wells & Co., had his leg broken above the ankle, on Thursday afternoon, by a large piece of iron ore, which fell upon him while he was unloading a wagon at the works. He was taken home and medical attention procured.

Alleged Wife Whipper.—Sarah Ryan alleges that her husband, Patrick Ryan, engaged in the reprehensible practice of whipping her yesterday. She complained of the treatment to Alderman Thomas, upon whose warrant the accused was arrested and lodged in jail in default of $400 bail for trial.

Liberty Street.—To-day so much of Liberty street as lies between Twentieth and Twenty-third streets, will be opened for travel, the grading and paving of that portion of the street having been finished yesterday. The street, when finished the entire length, will be one of the handsomest in the city.

Y. M. C. A. Open Air Meetings.—To-morrow (Sunday) afternoon, at a quarter past four o'clock, there will be two open air meetings, conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association, one at the Cemetery Gate, Lawrenceville, the other at the Market Square, Birmingham, weather permitting.

Selling Liquor on Sunday.—The following proprietors of saloons throughout the two cities were brought before Alderman Bailie yesterday, charged on oath of officer Thomas Smith with selling liquor on Sunday, namely: John Carr, Metz & Shaf, McFetridge & Reese, Jerry Loomis and Manus McLaughlin. The accused were held for a hearing this afternoon.

Nominations To-Night.—The Republicans of the Thirteenth ward should remember the nomination of candidates for ward officers and members of Council which takes place in their district to-night. The polls will be open from three to seven o'clock P. M., and every Republican should be on hand to cast his vote and influence in favor of good and true candidates.

Allegheny Postoffice Department.—During the quarter ending October 1st, 1868, the following mail matter has been received and delievered at the Allegheny Postoffice:

	Delivered.	Collected.
Mail Letters	105,604	33,192
City Letters	10,211	1,526
Papers	55,656	1,284

If you would enjoy a fragrant Havana or delicious Cuba cigar drop in at John Megraw's headquarters for tobacco, snuff and cigars, No. 54 Hand street. No where else in the city can you be better pleased, for no where else is the stock larger or finer. A full line of cigar tubes and meerschaum pipes, of the best quality, at most reasonable prices. Dealers who buy to sell again dealt with liberally. s

Unintentional.—In our report of the mass meeting in Allegheny Diamond, on Thursday evening, we inadvertently omitted to mention that the Tanner Club, of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, was present in full force, having marched the entire distance for the purpose of participating. The club is composed of the active Republicans of the ward, and the majority for Grant and Colfax in November will demonstrate that the cause of loyalty was in good hands.

Almost an Accident.—On Thursday afternoon as a gentleman, a prominent Federal street, Allegheny merchant, was driving along North Avenue in a buggy the horse attached to the vehicle became frightened and ran away. After running a short distance the buggy veered into an excavation made for gas pipe, checking the runaway, but pitching the gentleman out to the ground. He sustained but a few slight bruises and was enabled in a short time to proceed on his way.

Sad Accident.—A bright little girl, of fourteen years, named Mary Jane Reese, daughter of Phillip Reese, residing near the Copper Works, was scalded to death yesterday morning under the following circumstances. Mrs. Reese was engaged in the performance of some household duties, leaving her little daughter playing around. The mother's attention was suddenly attracted by the cries of her child, who had fallen into a kettle of boiling water, which had been left standing on the floor near the stove. The little sufferer was extricated, but too late, as she survived but a short time. The Coroner was notified of the occurrence and held an inquest and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts.

COLONIZATION.

A Card from E. J. Keenan, Esq., Deputy Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, in Reply to the Affidavit of John H. Jones.

We published yesterday the sworn statement of Mr. J. H. Jones, a respectable citizen of this city, detailing the particulars of an interview held with E. J. Keenan, Esq., Deputy Chairman of the State Central Committee, in order to develope the alleged work of colonization now going forward in the XXIst Congressional District to defeat Honest John Covode, the Republican candidate for Congress. Mr. Keenan furnishes us the following statement in reply, which we willingly publish, believing with all due respect to Mr. Keenan's veracity, that it only serves to make a clear case against our Democratic friends, and to corroborate the affidavit of Mr. Jones. Here is what Mr. K. says over his own signature:

PITTSBURGH, October 2, 1868.

EDITORS GAZETTE: The GAZETTE and Commercial of this morning publish with flaming headings an affidavit made by one who represents himself to be John H. Jones, in which I am charged with attempting to colonize him in Westmoreland county, in order that his vote might be had against Covode. A portion of his affidavit is true. The material parts are simply false. What is true I will state. Last night, just at the door of my office, I was accosted by a young man who inquired if "that was Keenan's office." I asked him "which Keenan." He replied, "Ed. Keenan," when I informed him that was my name. He said he had "got into a fuss and had to leave the city—had been informed that I had work going on in the country, and could give him a job," and that he wanted to go out into the Westmoreland district to vote against the "Alligator." I told him I had no work for him, but that work was plenty in the country, and I did not doubt he could get it if he went after it, and asked him who sent him to me. He said "Mr. Neeson who keeps a hotel on Penn street." The fact of his coming to me in that way and the promptness of his replies, as well as his anxiety to have me employ him, led me to believe that this was simply another of the "jobs" that our Radical friends had set up, and desirous to learn the facts, I told him to walk up stairs, as I wished to see a man. I then procured a horse and buggy, and in company with Charles B. Strain drove out to Mr. Neeson's Hotel; saw him and learned that the statements of Jones, who represented himself as "Johnson" to me, were entirely false. On my return I found him still at the rooms, and upon declining again to employ him, and assuring him that I was not in the importing business, he requested the "loan" —as he called it—of money enough to get out of the city, naming East Liberty as his destination, when I gave him a dollar, and he left, and I passed into the next room, where I found Alderman Strain, John C. Dunn, Robert S. Lynch, Capt. Thomas Pender, Daniel W. Boss, R. C. G. Sproul, David Herbert and John O'Conner. I immediately informed them that a job had been "put up," and gave them the facts.

The statements of "Jones," alias "Johnston," as to what occurred in that room while he was waiting for my return, are sufficiently refuted by the card accompanying this, signed by them.

That I should tell Jones, after my return from Neeson's, and after I knew he was lying, that the colonization business was going along "first rate," and that I had shipped "eighteen men that afternoon," is simply absurd, and bears upon its own face the impress of a lie—which I pronounce it to be. Men who engage in such operations do not usually inform strangers of the facts; at least that would not be my practice.

I gave the poor devil a dollar because he had a pitiful story to tell, and he rewards the charity by a slanderous oath—false in every material part.

I may add that when I go into the colonization business I shall do it on a larger scale than is indicated by this alleged attempt. One man and one dollar is not a heavy business. E. J. KEENAN.

The undersigned were in the Democratic Committee rooms at the time John H. Jones, the individual alluded to, was awaiting the return of Mr. Keenan. No such conversation as that stated by him occurred among us, and everything he swears to in that connection is false in every particular. We might add that we were not a Committee at all.

Mr. Keenan and Mr. Strain were at my house last night. Keenan informed me of the facts, stating that he was satisfied a "job" had been "set up" for him, and enquired if I had sent such a man to him for work. I informed him that I had not.

JAMES NEESON.

I went with Mr. Keenan to Mr. Neeson, and we there learned what was suspected before, that this was a attempt to "put up" a "job." CHAS. B. STRAIN.

[NOTES.—1. Was it in accordance with human nature that Mr. Keenan should reward the man discovered in a gross falsehood and detected in an attempt to win and betray his confidence? Are traitors in the Democratic camp usually dismissed with pecuniary presents, out of pure charity?

2. If the Democrats are not colonizing in Covode's District, why should Mr. Keenan have instantly suspected Mr. Jones as an emissary of the Republicans to "put up a job" on him? What job? Why did they fear?

3. If no colonizing is going forward, why should Mr. Keenan have been so particular to ascertain whether Jones was an imposter or not, as to drive one mile to confer with Mr. Neeson on the subject?

Proper answer to these queries will be readily framed in the minds of those who read the candid, straight-forward sworn statement of Mr. Jones in yesterday's GAZETTE. Gentlemen of the opposition, own up, for you have got into a bad box, but no worse than those filled by your brother Democrats throughout the entire State, who are now resorting to fraud of every description to secure victory in October.]

The Locomotive Explosion on the Lawrence Railroad—Further Particulars.

We stated yesterday that an explosion had occurred on the Lawrence Railroad, in the vicinity of New Castle, by which the engineer, fireman and brakesman were instantly killed. We have since learned the following particulars: The engine, Freight No. 12, was moving along at the usual rate of speed, with a train of fourteen cars attached, and when opposite Covert's Station the explosion took place. The engineer, Thomas Miller, was blown high into the air, and fell, crushed and bleeding, to the ground, some distance off. He survived his injuries about twenty minutes, lingering in great pain till death put an end to his suffering. The fireman, L. Hurd, and the brakesman W. Seford were both instantly killed, their bodies being terribly mutilated. Four of the cars were badly wrecked and almost destroyed. Fragments of the engine were scattered in every direction, pieces of it being found one hundred yards from the scene of the explosion. Parts of the clothing of the victims were also discovered several hundred yards off torn almost to shreds. It is said that the track was very much damaged, rails being bent and the ties torn up. The lower part of the boiler was torn out, which seems to indicate that it was defective in that portion. Part of it has not yet been found. An investigation is now going on, but thus far nothing has been developed which throws any light on the cause.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Escape from the Western Penitentiary.

During the early part of Tuesday nigh last, a well-matured, determined, but unsuccessful attempt to escape from the Western Penitentiary, by a number of the roughest characters in the prison, developed itself. The following information is from the officers of the prison, and of course it is reliable: Noises were heard in the new wing of the central block of cells by the watchman, who communicated the intelligence to Mr. Shellenberger, the Deputy Warden, who summoned all the watchmen on duty. The noises indicated that a co-operative movement was on foot, and that the prisoners in both tiers of cells were at work, apparently with the intention of communicating with each other. They were suffered to go on unmolested, however, for some time, when suddenly all noises were hushed, except some whispering, which indicated that the operators had rendezvoused in one cell. The Deputy Warden concluded upon a coup-de-etat, and with that object in view, gathered all the officers around, to assist him in securing all the parties engaged in the attempted escape. The door of the cell was suddenly opened, and a blinding light directed upon the inmates. They were taken by surprise, and shrunk back to a remote part of the cell. They made no effort to resist and were quietly marched to other cells in charge of the officers.

An examination of the cells was made after the prisoners had been removed, and it was ascertained that the partition walls of three cells had been cut through, and that the stone floor in the cell in which the prisoners rendezvoused had been partially cut through. It was evidently a part of the plan above intimated, for the prisoners in the upper cell to communicate with those below, and that feature attracted the officers attention. On opening the cell immediately below the one entered above, it was found to be empty, and a further examination showed that the three adjoining cells were empty. A hole was found in the floor of the first cell, sufficiently large to allow the passage of a man's body, and from the earth which was piled up, it was evident that the inmates were tunneling below. Knowing that escape by such a course was absolutely impossible, and feeling confident that those engaged in the effort would soon be convinced of the folly of the undertaking, the Deputy Warden ordered the flag stone to be replaced, and then had the holes communicating to the several cells firmly secured.

On Wednesday morning the cell door was again opened, and six prisoners were found in it. They stated that they had hoped to reach the sewer running from the Penitentiary to the river, and supposed that they could do so from the vault running beneath the floor in the centre of the wing. They did reach the vault, but were completely disheartened to find the connections to the sewer were made by iron pipes not large enough to admit a man's head. They were all secured and removed to cells from which there will be no escape.

The plan of those engaged was an exceedingly desperate one, but betrayed entire ignorance of the plan of the building. Even if an entrance could be obtained to the sewer, suffocation is inevitable. The attempt will, doubtless, have a salutary effect generally upon those confined in that institution, morally and physically.

Mary Shaw plead guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment.

Mrs. Carline and Mrs. Reamer, charged with picking the pocket of Mrs. H. M. Rolfe, of Birmingham, were convicted of larceny. Sentence deferred.

The Unhappy Wife.

What a mask the unhappy wife is forced for prudence and self-respect, to wear over that poor tear-dewed face of hers! If she does not wear it, and if she lets the tears down in the sight of all, burning plowshares will not be too hot for her feet to walk on, and she must carry live coals from the world's altar, though they scorch her trembling fingers to the bone. Full of sympathy as the world is for her sorrows if only delicately indicated—lifting a mere corner of the vail daintily—it has neither sympathy nor respect if broadly shown and rung into its ears through a six-foot speaking trumpet. But the mask of the ill-mated spouse, male or female, must be peculiar manufacture and careful manipulation; the kind more usually adopted, because most generally approved of, being one embodying a gentle patience, a plaintive manner of martyrdom—Saint Celilia exhaling her soul in mournful music, Saint Sebastian lying speechless under the cruel arrows piercing his heart. But no gentle, loving partner of our joys need wear any mask to blind the world if she owns one of those magnificent trunks just received by Joseph Liebler, at the Premium Trunk Factory, No. 104, Wood street. These are the best specimens of durable and well-made sole leather trunks ever displayed in Pittsburgh, and will arrest the attention of those wishing any thing in the line. Liebler's stock is full and complete in all its departments, and his prices are very reasonable.

Arrest of a Horse Thief.

Officer Shaffer yesterday afternoon arrested a man named Edward Nau, a horse skinner by trade, charged with being one of a party who stole a horse from J. G. Smith, of Ross township, during Wednesday night last. Nau was seen on the road in that vicinity with the stolen property by some party who gave the necessary information to secure his arrest. He was arrested, as stated, at his residence in the Seventh ward. The names of two other parties are known, but for prudential reasons we forego publication. They are being looked after with a sharp stick, and will be brought to grief. Nau acknowledges the theft, and put the officer on the track for the recovery of the animal. He remains in the lock-up and will doubtless have a hearing to-day.

Affectionate Relatives.

Stephen Kelley and Thomas Kelley, with their families, hail from "Ye Merrie England." Stephen has been a resident of America for some time, and being pleased with the place, he sent over for Thomas, who arrived in the country a few weeks ago. Since his arrival, Thomas and his family have been occupying a house on Virgin alley jointly with his brother. Things went smoothly enough until Thursday afternoon, when the women folks of the establishment stirred up a little breeze, which resulted in Thomas and family being stirred very unceremoniously from about the premises, after suffering the humiliating indignity of being severely beaten. Yesterday morning Thomas went to the house for the purpose of removing his household effects, but was completely thwarted in his design, and again driven from the place by his affectionate relations. This was too much for him, and he accordingly repaired to Alderman McMaster's office, and lodged informations against his brother for assault and battery and larceny as bailee. The last offence consisted in the retention of his goods, amounting in value to ten dollars, to wit: one trunk seven dollars, a lot of queensware three dollars. The defendant was arrested and after a hearing committed in default of $300 bail for trial. Subsequently one of the neighbors made an information before Alderman Strain against Stephen for disorderly conduct, the little episode having created quite a disturbance in the vicinity of its occurrence. On this information Stephen was fined twenty-five dollars, in default of which he was committed to jail for thirty days. Family quarrels always end unpleasantly.

Stole His Carpet Sack.

A deck hand named James France, employed on the steamer Kenton, came before Mayor Blackmore yesterday morning and instituted suit against John Heath, charging him with the larceny of his carpet sack, with contents. It appears that the defendant had been previously employed on the same boat, but had been discharged. He was observed leaving the boat with the stolen property in his possession. A warrant was issued, and officer Irwin succeeded in arresting him shortly afterwards. He had a hearing before His Honor in the afternoon, when he disclaimed intending larceny. The carpet sack having subsequently been found by officer Messner in the second story of a house at which defendant had been stopping counteracted the good effect the disclaimer might have had, and His Honor required him to give bail, failing to procure which he was committed to jail.

Submerged—Temporary Inconvenience.

The heavy rain yesterday evening put our friend Mr. Burns, proprietor of a restaurant on the corner of Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, out of sorts. Not only Mr. Burns, but those hungry fellows who sup with him. The restaurant is considerably below the pavement. For the purpose of constructing a new vault the pavement along Sixth avenue was taken up and the excavation made to the curb. The rain, came, however, when least expected, and the consequence was that the volume of water rushing down Sixth avenue, washed under the curb and over, until almost totally undermined, it finally gave away, and allowed the water to run in unchecked, filling Mr. Burn's apartment to the depth of several feet. The damage to Mr. B. is considerable.

The Property of the Marathon Silver Mining Company.

In the purchase of their very valuable property the company made use of every precaution which business tact, and a regard for the interest of their stockholders dictated. In the case of the Marathon Mine, not only were the reports of mining engineers in Austin required, but a thorough examination by one of the principal shareholders was made on the spot. The title papers were thoroughly examined, and searches made by the best talent in the country. The consequence is that the Marathon Company can to-day offer the most promising mining investment before the public. The officers of the Company are thorough business men and stand high in the community in which they live.

Painful Accident.

Miss McCallin, a daughter of Mr. John McCallin, corner of Elm and Wylie streets, met with an unfortunate accident on Thursday, while visiting the fair now in progress at Beaver. The horse attached to the buggy in which she was riding frightened from some cause and ran off. The buggy was upset and the young lady thrown out, the wheels of the vehicle passing over her ankle, breaking the bone. She was conveyed to the residence of her uncle, where she received medical attendance, and was subsequently brought to her home in this city, where she is getting along as well as could be expected.

Pittsburgh Female College.—The Fall Term of this really meritorious institution has opened under flattering auspices, the attendance indicating an unusual degree of prosperity. Accessions are constantly coming in, but the capacity of the school is not taxed to the detriment of the scholarst Much has been favorably said of this College, its general management, course of study, and character of the educators, and we can only reiterate that the College is an ornament to our city and has given us a wide reputation, and deserves liberal patronage.

Noonday Prayer Meeting.—The noonday prayer meeting, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, and held at their rooms, No. 51 Fifth street, still continues with unabated interest. The special topic for to-day is the Sunday school cause, which should be sufficient to attract the attendance of Christian workers in large numbers. Accommodations have been made for ladies, and a special invitation is extended to them to be present.

Evening School.—We would again call attention to the fact that the evening session of the Iron City College, corner of Penn and St. Clair streets, commence on Monday next; and every young man who can should make it a point to attend. Competent teachers are provided for each department, and every facility is afforded for acquiring a thorough knowledge of Book-Keeping, Penmanship and Arithmetic.

The Carpet-baggers of the South are meeting with ill luck, as they generally had not the good sense to supply themselves with those of Joseph Liebler's make, No. 104 Wood street. A man traveling with a trunk, valise or carpet sack of such excellent make as Liebler alone turns out, would command the respect of any strange people among whom he might find himself. A hint in time is sufficient.

In noticing the Hollen Knitting Machine we were in error, through misapprehension, as to its capacity. It has merits sufficient to commend it to public attention without exaggeration, as all will testify on examining the one on exhibition at Straw & Morton's, corner of St. Clair and Penn street. A few more shares of the stock yet remain unsold.

Opera House.—The performanace of the Star Ballet Troupe, last evening, was splendid, and notwithstanding the inclement weather, a large number was present. The matinee this afternoon and performance to-night, closes the engagement of the troupe in this city. Good bills are presented for both entertainments.

Complete Deafness Radically Cured.

D. D. Sines, a well known citizen of this city says: For several months I had been painfully afflicted and entirely deprived of hearing in my left ear, accompanied with singing and roaring sounds which were exceedingly disagreeable. Through the advice of a friend I was induced to apply to Dr. Aborn, of No. 134 Smithfield street.

By one operation, and in the space of five minutes, my hearing was restored and relieved of all unpleasant sensations. The cure was effected some time last winter, and there being no return of any of the symptoms since I am enabled to say that cure is a radical one. D. D. SINES.

Knit Wool Shawls at Bates & Bell's.

When the PLANTATION BITTERS were first made known to the American people some seven years ago, it was supposed they were an entirely new thing, and had never before been used. So far as their general use in the United States is concerned, this may be true. It is also true that the same Bitters were made and sold in the Island of St. Thomas, over forty years ago, as any old planter, merchant or sea captain doing business in the West Indies will tell you. It is distinctly within my recollection that on the return of my father (who was a sea captain, and doing an extensive trade in the tropics,) he would invariably have the Bitters among the ship's stores, and our family sideboard was nevar without them. For any sickness, it matters not how severe or trifling, the decanter of these Bitters, by a different name, was always resorted to as a sovereign remedy.

It is an object of much importance to the various clubs formed, or being formed, to know that the campaign materials are nearly exhausted in the Eastern cities, and that orders are daily pouring into Pittock's. Delay may prove dangerous, so we advise our friends to hurry along their orders. Pittock has also a large stock of flags, lanterns and general campaign goods which he offers at very low prices.
